

CHATEAU LA ROSE DU PIN

BORDEAUX SUPÉRIEUR ROUGE

MILLÉSIME 2015

85 pts au Wine Enthusiast Magazine

« The wine is lean, with acidity rather than ripe fruit. It is also tough with tannins. It could come round, although it will always be tough and extracted. » Roger Voss

« Smoky oaky nose, coffee and coconut hints. Dark plum, mulberry fruit on stylish oaky palate. »

87pts/100 Wine Enthusiast, January 2016

'The wine is structured, still very dry with tannins. It has concentration, smoky flavors along with acidity. Still young, it will integrate better. Drink from 2018.'

4.5/5 Guide Hubert 2015/2016

87pts/100 Wine Enthusiast, January 2015

'As the tannins soften, this wine will become rich with generous fruitiness. Blackberry flavors and acidity are developing well to give a wine that is full and will be well balanced. Drink this Ducourt family wine from 2016.' Roger Voss

MILLÉSIME 2012

87pts/100 Wine Enthusiast, January 2015

'The tannins are solid here, a dark, dense and smoky layer that gives a tough feel while still allowing room for the weight of fruit that is developing. A spicy character at the end adds interest. Drink from 2016' Roger Voss

MILLÉSIME 2010

89pts/100 Wine Enthusiast, January 2013

'Firm and solid, this features chunky tannins and strong structure... It has weight and power from its dry core and fruit, which promises aging.' Roger Voss

15.25/20 Recommended au Decanter magazine, November 2012 issue

'Successful, a modern touch from its vanilla oak, some dusting of coffee beans, not overly generous fruits at this early stage of its life, but this has definite potential to unfurl, and should be a keeper.' Jane Anson

1 étoile au Guide Hachette des Vins 2014

'Franc et intense, le bouquet allie harmonieusement la myrtille à un boisé empyreumatique, grillé, toasté et fumé, un rien mentholé. Après une attaque ronde, la bouche s'appuie avec beaucoup de vivacité sur une trame tannique pleine de promesse, avant de finir sur des évocations de café grillé.'
